

A+[®] University[™] – Your Online Training Resource

Navigate training roadblocks such as scheduling conflicts, budgetary constraints, and teacher turnover.

The world of educational technology is constantly changing and e-learning is emerging as a preferred method to train educators. Access, information, and speed are keys to the success of e-learning. Always on the cutting edge, American Education Corporation (AEC) has developed an online training course to meet the changing needs of educators.

A+[®] University[™] is a series of online lessons specifically designed as a review of the basic “teacher” and “administration” functions within the A+nyWhere Learning System[®] (A+LS[™]) courseware program. Training is self-paced and allows educators to repeat components as many times as necessary to master concepts.

The A+University lessons are not intended as a replacement to critical on-site instructor-led training, but rather as reinforcement to the on-site training program. Because participants cannot be expected to retain everything they are exposed to in an initial training session, A+University fortifies the on-site training experience by focusing on the core A+LS courseware elements that the educators will encounter on a day-to-day basis.

The A+University online training resource is only available for purchase exclusively through American Education Corporation’s A+ VIP Bundle[™]. The A+ VIP Bundle includes content provided by Encyclopaedia Britannica[®], A+University online training, automatic and all-inclusive A+LS courseware title upgrades, and automatic updates to customers’ national and state standard sets.
